Clinical Exercise Physiology at Deakin University

Do you enjoy studying sport at school and want to make a career out of it? Clinical exercise physiology could be the career for you!

Where physiotherapists assist people with movement disorders using techniques to assist muscles and joints to move to their full potential, clinical exercise physiologists use exercise to prevent and rehabilitate disease and injury in the community. An Accredited Exercise Physiologist (AEP) is formally recognised by the Department of Health and Ageing as an allied health professional, which means that they are able to deliver Medicare-compensable services.

Deakin's Master of Clinical Exercise Physiology aims to produce quality exercise physiologists who can use exercise to prevent and rehabilitate disease and injury in the community, and this course is accredited by Exercise and Sports Science Australia (ESSA).

To be eligible to apply for the master's program, students must be able to demonstrate eligibility for exercise scientist accreditation from ESSA, and provide evidence of 140 hours of exercise service delivery for apparently healthy clientele. Students can achieve this by studying Deakin's Bachelor of Exercise and Sport Science, undertaking the accredited exercise science - ESSA sequence.

Career as a Physiotherapist

Physiotherapists work in hospitals, rehabilitation centres, aged-care facilities, centres for the physically disabled, maternity hospitals, education and research. Some are self-employed but they often work as part of a team of health professionals.

A useful website to browse is Physiotherapy Board of Australia

A physiotherapist may perform the following tasks:

- assess the physical condition of patients to diagnose problems and plan appropriate treatment
- use a range of techniques to strengthen and stretch muscles and joints to improve patient mobility (such as massage, hydrotherapy, breathing and relaxation techniques)
- perform spinal and joint mobilisation and manipulation
- use equipment such as heat packs, exercise equipment, ice packs, ultrasound and electrotherapy to ease pain, reduce swelling and improve range of movement
- re-train patients to walk or to use devices such as walking frames, splints, crutches and wheelchairs
- educate patients, their families and the community to prevent injury and disability and to lead healthy lifestyles
